Take Your Career to the Next Level in Research, Practice, and Academia

NSU's postprofessional Ph.D. in Occupational Therapy prepares you to advance and expand your career to new horizons. Become a leader in the field. Increase the knowledge base and practice of occupational therapy as a scholar, researcher, and academician. Get prepared to contribute to the field of occupational therapy with a focus on occupation, health, and well-being to meet society's ever-changing need for participation and engagement in occupation.

Our Ph.D. program and curriculum include occupational therapy and multidisciplinary core courses, electives, research residency, qualifying process, and completion of a dissertation study and report. The program offers a flexible schedule meant to fit the lifestyle of working professionals. Courses are online, with a four-day, on-campus Winter Research Institute held during the end of your second year of coursework. A research residency requirement and a qualifying process prior to starting your dissertation are also involved.

Occupational therapists who have completed a postprofessional clinical doctorate in occupational therapy (O.T.D. or Dr.O.T.) are offered an easy transition to a research doctoral program. The admissions criteria and curriculum for the Bridge to Ph.D. program are the same as the Ph.D. program; however, students in the bridge program can transfer up to 12 credit hours from their previously completed postprofessional doctoral program. Transferred credits are accepted in lieu of up to two core courses and up to two electives and are subject to evaluation of course syllabi and grades by the Ph.D. program director.
